

DEFERRAL OF ENROLLMENT

An accepted student who chooses to forgo enrollment has the option to defer their acceptance. This option is only applicable for matriculating students looking to defer up to two consecutive main academic terms.

In order to defer enrollment, the student must submit their decision and anticipated start date in writing to the Office of Graduate Admissions. The admissions staff will then update the application status to the appropriate start date. Students who choose to take courses at another institution during the deferment period must reapply to Georgian Court University and submit all updated transcripts. Students who would like to defer longer than two consecutive main academic terms will need to reapply but documents already submitted will not need to be resubmitted.
