Overview

Earn your Graduate Certificate in Criminal Justice and Human Rights online from a U.S. institution dedicated to social justice and values-based education. The Certificate comprises four courses (12 credits) that can also be used toward the M.A. in Criminal Justice and Human Rights. Gain practical knowledge and the skills necessary to advance respect for human rights and democratic justice in a heterogeneous society. The multidisciplinary curriculum emphasizes applying research to criminological problems, developing effective and ethical policies, and moral leadership. Students gain critical expertise for careers in government agencies, law, social services, security, nonprofits, faith-based international organizations, and research.
